Mission: To offer graduate level students from all academic disciplines who are interested in global health an educational and career building experience

Core Values:

- Learning. This is an educational opportunity both within the field of global health and thriving in a professional work setting; learning and growth will be optimized through initiative-taking, asking questions and getting involved in the many aspects of our work
- Flexibility. The experience is tailored to fit the needs and interests of our interns to build skills and knowledge that allow them to be successful in their future pursuits.
- Communication. Open and respectful communication enable a positive and educational experience for all involved and allows for reflection and adjustments to be made.
- Diversity. Because of our different cultural roots, religious beliefs, and experiences in different settings, we value and cultivate an abiding respect for each other, one that fosters creativity and flexibility in our search for robust solutions.
- Problem-solving. The experience will help to develop problem-solvers who actively search for solutions and collaborate with colleagues and partners to develop best practices.
- Multi-faceted. Our work extends beyond health services delivery and this opportunity will provide interns with a variety of experiences related to clinical programming, organizational management, regulatory oversight, accounting, facilities maintenance, public policy, fundraising and more.
